

Community Movie Night

at White Horse Farm

Join us for Polyfaces — the story of a farm that proves working with nature beats fighting it.

Joel Salatin and his family farm the Shenandoah Valley by stacking enterprises, moving animals daily, and selling directly to neighbors. The result: nutrient-dense food for 6,000 families, thriving local economy, and soil that improves year after year.

"If every farmer in the United States would practice this system, in fewer than 10 years we would sequester ALL the CARBON that's been emitted since the beginning of the Industrial Age..."
— Joel Salatin

A warm, hopeful film about what's possible when innovation meets tradition. Come see why this model is being replicated worldwide — then stay and connect with others figuring it out here in Yamhill County.
